POETRY.

From Simm's "Lays of the Palmetto."

"OUR COUNTRY IS A GALLANT BARK."

Our country is a gallant bark,
And gallant seamen man her,
The eagle's spirit makes her flight,
The eagle's wing her banner;
Where Heaven unveils its cloudless blue,
Where winds and waves can bear her,
Her thunders speak to hostile realms,
That, hating, still must fear her.

From thirty empires link'd in one
She takes her strength and glory,
And makes a progress, 'neath the sun,
That glows, a sun-like story;
In peace she grasps the pride of war,
In war her purpose fondly
Is still to save from cloud the star
That shines for Freedom only!

And thus, with giant might endow'd,
No giant will degrade her;
Of power and wisdom justly proud,
No injured realm upbraids her;
She heeds no mock of foes who hate,
But steers with progress steady,
For those who hail with cheers, elate,
For those with curses ready!

Oh! gallant bark, IF EVER THUS,
THY COURSE IN RIGHT PURSUING.
No hostile hate can rear the rock
Or wave, to work thy ruin!
The seas shall own thy progress wide,
The realms of earth thy glory,
And, in his daily march of pride,
The sun shall write thy story.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A THRILLING ADVENTURE.

We question whether, in the history of 'hair-breadth' escapes, a parallel to the following can easily be found. The story was told us by an old and valued friend, now residing in the country near this city, but whose early days were spent near the tragic adventure here recorded.

We give the story as related to us, in the words of the hero.

'It was about the year 1805 that I settled in Virginia, near the fall of the Kenawa. The country at that time was an unbroken wilderness. But few settlements had been made then by the whites, and they were so far apart as to render vain all hopes of assistance in case of an attack from hostile Indians—numbers of whom still infested the neighborhood.

'I lived there alone with my wife for several months unmolested, and by dint of perseverance, being then young and hardy, had succeeded in making quite a large clearing in the forest, which I had planted with corn, and which promised an abundant yield.

'One morning after we had despatched our humble meal, and I had just prepared to venture forth upon my regular routine of labor my attention was arrested by the tinkling of a cow-bell in the corn-field.

'There,' said my wife, 'the cow is in the corn-field.'

'But the ear of the back-woodsman becomes, by education, very acute, especially so from the fact that his safety often depends upon the nice cultivation of that sense. I was not so easily deceived. I listened—the sound was repeated. 'That,' said I, in reply to the remark of my wife, 'was not the tinkle of a bell upon the neck of a cow. It is a decoy from some Indian who desires to draw me into ambush.'

'Believing this to be the case, I took down my old musket, (I had no rifle,) and seeing that it was properly loaded, I stole cautiously around the field towards the point from which the sound seemed to proceed. As I had suspected, there in a cluster of bushes, crouched an Indian waiting for me to appear in answer to his decoy-bell, that he might send the fatal bullet to my heart. I approached, without discovering myself to him, until within shooting distance, then raised my piece and fired. The bullet sped true to its mark, and the indian fell dead.

'Not knowing that he might be accompanied by others, I returned with all speed to the cabin, and having firmly barricaded the door, I watched all day from the portholes in anticipation of an attack from the companions of the Indian I had killed.—To add to the danger and seeming hopelessness of my situation, I discovered that I had but one charge of powder left: I could but make one shot, then, if attacked by numbers, I should be entirely in their power. Determined to do the best with what I had, I poured out the last charge of powder and put it into my musket and then waited for the approach of night, feeling confident of an attack. Night came at last. A beautiful moonlight night it was too, and this favored me greatly, as I would thereby be able to observe the movements of the enemy as they approach my cabin. It was some two hours after nightfall, and as yet I had neither heard nor seen a sign of the Indians, when suddenly I was startled by the baying of my dog at the stable. I knew that the Indians were coming. The stable stood a little to the west of the cabin, and between the two was a patch of clear ground, upon which the light of the full moon fell unobstructed. Judging from the noise at the stable that they would advance from that direction, I posted myself at the porthole on that side of the cabin.

'I had previously placed my wife on the cross-pole in the chimney, so that, in case our enemies effected an entrance into the cabin, she might climb out through the low chimney and effect her escape. For myself, I entertained no hope; but, determined not to be taken alive, I resolved to sell my life dearly.

'With breathless anxiety I watched at the porthole. At length I saw them emerge from the shadow of the stable and advance across the vacant ground towards my cabin. One—two—three—great Heaven! six stalwart Indians, armed to the teeth, and urged on by the hope of a revenge, and I alone to oppose them, with one charge of powder. My case was desperate, indeed. With quick yet stealthy step, in close single file, they approached, and were already in a few yards of the house, when a slight change in the movement of the forward Indians changed the position of the entire six, so that a portion of the left side of each was uncovered. They were in a range—one aim would cover all. Quick as thought I aimed and fired. As the smoke cleared away, I could hardly credit what my senses showed me as the result of my shot. The fifteen slugs with which I had loaded my musket had done their work well, five of the six Indians lay dead upon the ground, and the sixth had disappeared.

'Although no enemy was now in sight, I did not venture forth until morning.—There lay the bodies of five Indians undisturbed, together with the rifle of the other. Securing the arms and ammunition of the fallen Indians, I followed up the trail of the missing one until it reached the river, beyond which point I could discover no trace whatever. From the amount of blood which marked the trail, together with the unmistakeable evidence that he had picked his way with difficulty, I was led to believe that he was mortally wounded, and in order to prevent his body from falling into the hands of his white foe, he had groped his way to the river and thrown himself into the current, which had borne him away.

'The Indians had killed my cow, and that, you may be assured, was no trifling loss, yet, in my gratitude for my escape from the merciless savages, I would have been utterly willing to have made greater sacrifices. I was well provided—by means of arms and ammunition taken from the six Indians—in case of a second attack; but this, fortunately, proved to be my last adventure with the savages. Not one of the band had escaped to tell the tale and incite his brethren to avenge the death of his other comrades.

'Ah!' exclaimed the old man, while the tears gushed from his eyes at the memory of that eventful night, 'that was a glorious shot—the best I ever made.

The hero of this adventure lived to see the rude wilderness, where he had pitched his lonely cabin, transformed into smiling fields and peopled by hardy and enterprising pale faces, among whom his last days were passed in peace and plenty, undisturbed by the presence of his old time foes.

HOW AND WHEN TO STOOP.

Benjamin Franklin, when a young man, visited the Rev. Dr. Cotton Mather.—When the interview was ended, the reverend gentleman showed him, by a back way, out of the house. As they proceeded along a narrow passage, the doctor said to the lad, 'Stoop! Stoop!' Not immediately comprehending the meaning of the advice, he took another step, and brought his head pretty violently against a beam that projected over the passage. 'My lad,' said the divine, 'you are young, and the world is before you; learn to stoop as you go through it, and you will save yourself many a hard thump.'

Not an easy science to learn, is it? the science of stooping gracefully, and at the right time. When a man stands before you in a passion, fuming and foaming, although you know that he is both unreasonable and wrong, it is folly to stand as straight, and stamp as hard, and talk as loud, as he does. This places two temporary madmen face to face. Stoop as you would if a tornado were passing. It is no disgrace to stoop before a heavy wind. The reed bends to the wind, while the unyielding oak is torn up by the roots. It is just as sound philosophy to echo back the bellowings of a mad bull, as it is to respond in kind to the ravings of a mad man, or—pardon me, ladies! of a mad woman. Stoop! gracefully, deferentially, and amid the pause of the wind throw in the still small voice, the 'soft and gentle words which turn away wrath.'

When reproved for an error you have committed, for a wrong you have perpetrated, for a neglect chargeable against you, stoop! Do not justify or palliate a palpable fault. This only intensifies and aggravates the wrong. This excites direr indignation. Stoop! If you say, mildly, 'I know I was wrong; forgive me,' you have stolen away all your complaintan's thunder. I have seen this tried with the happiest effect. A friend came to me once with a face black with frowns, and ire all bottled up ready for an explosion, because I had failed to fulfil some promised commission. I prognosticated the storm, and took both his hands in mine as he approached, simply saying, 'I am very sorry I forgot; pardon me this time.' What could the man say? He kept the cork in his bottle, and I escaped a terrible blast.

How much more easily and pleasantly we should get through life, if we only knew how and when to stoop! But, when tempted to do a mean thing or a wrong thing, when solicited to evil by associates or circumstances, then don't stoop!

Sargent's School Monthly.

A GOOD RETORT.—Hon. Alex. H. Stephens, of Georgia, was once running for Congress with an opponent of unusually large stature, and on the stump one day the discussion became exceedingly warm. Whereupon the large man said, contemptuously, of and to Stephens, who is exceedingly small and frail:

'Why, I could button your ears back, and swallow you whole, sir!' To which cannibal remark, Stephens annihilatingly retorted, 'and if you do, sir, you would then have more brains in your stomach, than you ever had in your head!' The laughter which followed, effectually dissipated the ill-humor which was gaining ground.

MR. BLIFKIN'S BABY.—The first baby was a great institution. As soon as he came into this 'breathing world,' as the late W. Shakspeare has it, he took command in our house. Everything was subservient to him. The baby was the balance wheel that regulated everything. He regulated the temperature, he regulated the food, he regulated the servants, he regulated me. For the first six months of that precious existence he had me up on an average six times a night. 'Mr. Blifkins, says my wife, 'bring that light here, do; the baby looks strangely; I'm so fraid it will have a fit!' Of course the lamp was brought, and of course the baby lay sucking his fist like a little white bear, as he was. 'Mr. Blifkins,' said my wife, 'I think I feel a draught of air; I wish you would get up and see if the window is not open a little, because baby might get sick.' Nothing was the matter with the window as I knew very well. 'Mr. Blifkins,' says my wife, just as I was going to sleep again 'that lamp as you have placed it, shines directly in baby's eyes—strange that you have no more consideration.' I arranged the light and went to bed again. Just as I was dropping to sleep again, 'Mr. Blifkins,' said my wife, 'did you think to buy that broma to-day for the baby?' 'My dear,' said I, 'will you do me the injustice to believe that I could overlook a matter so essential to the comfort of that inestimable child?' She apologized very handsomely but made her anxiety the scape goat. I forgave her, and without saying a word more to her I addressed myself to sleep again. 'Mr. Blifkins,' said my wife, shaking me, 'you must not snore so, you will wake the baby,' 'Just so—just so' said I, half asleep, thinking I was Solon Shingle. 'Mr. Blifkins,' said my wife, 'will you get up and hand me the warm gruel from the nurse lamp for baby?—the dear child? if it wasn't for his mother I don't know what he would do. How can you sleep so, Mr. Blifkins?' 'I suspect, my dear,' said I, 'that it is because I am tired.' 'Oh, it's very well for you men to talk about being tired,' said my wife: 'I don't know what you would say if you had to toil and drudge like a poor woman with a baby.' I tried to soothe her by telling her she had no patience at all, and got up for the posset. Having aided in answering the baby's requirements, I stepped into bed again, with the hope of sleeping. 'Mr. Blifkins,' said she in a louder key. I said nothing. 'Oh, dear!' said that estimable woman, in great apparent anguish 'how can a man, who has arrived at the honor of a live baby of his own, sleep, when he don't know that the dear creature will live till morning? I remained silent, and, after a while, deeming that Mrs. Blifkins had gone to sleep, I stretched my limbs for repose. How long I slept I dont know, but I was awakened by a furious jab in the forehead by some sharp instrument. I started up, and Mrs. Blifkins was sitting up in the bed adjusting some portion of the baby's dress. She had, in a state of semi-somnolence, mistaken my head for the pillow, which she customarily used for a nocturnal pin-cushion. I protested against such treatment in somewhat round terms, pointing to several perforations in my forehead. She told me she should willingly bear such trifling things for the sake of the baby. I insisted upon it that I didn't think my duty as a parent to that young immortal required the surrender of my forehead as a pin-cushion. This was one of many nights passed in this way. The truth was, that the baby was what every other man's first baby is, an autocrat—absolute and unlimited. Such was the story of Blifkins as he related it to us the other day. It is a little exaggerated picture of almost every man's experience.—Saturday Evening Gazette.

AWFUL MYSTERY—TWO LIFELESS CHILDREN FOUND IN A VACANT HOUSE.—Late Sunday afternoon some adventurous boys at play, went into a vacant two-story brick house in the vicinity of the Reservoir. Stowed away in one corner of a dark room was a good sized box, with some soiled canvas near it. Curiosity prompted the boys to open the box and they discovered the bodies of two small children, apparently five and six years of age respectively, lying side by side, with the exception of an indescribable coldness and an unearthly look of palor, the pair of little innocents might have been supposed to be wrapt in sleep. Various experiments were tried to ascertain whether "death, or his brother, sleep," held sway over the motionless tiny forms. It was found that they were not alive, and the startling news of a horrible murder soon spread over the neighborhood. The rumor coming to the ears of two well known citizens, prompt enquiry was instituted as to its foundation, and resulted in sending at about 12 o'clock at night for Coroner Kennedy. That functionary was not to be found; so it was concluded to place a guard over the bodies until morning, with instructions to allow no one to touch them, the object being to let the proper officer hold inquest over them just as they were found. Too much credit cannot be given to the two gentlemen alluded to—one of them a member of the 'Free Democratic Central Committee,' and the other lately a candidate for Jailor, before the "Free Democratic Convention"—for their sleepless endeavors to do what was considered their duty in the premises. At an early hour yesterday morning the Coroner was notified. On proceeding to the locality he learned that the house had been occupied by some person engaged in the wax figure business, who on leaving, not long ago, had left two almost faultless images to be removed by some friend. These wax figures, then, were the innocent children which had caused such dark suspicion, and which were the unthinking causes of so great solicitude upon the minds of the aforesaid highly respectable citizens.—"Verdict Accordingly."—St. Louis Republican, 27th.

REVENGE OF A GIRL UPON A GAY DECEIVER.—An Irish dandy, named James Martin, has been for a few months past paying attentions to Mary Sheridan, a chamber-maid at the City Hotel, in Hartford. Recently the girl has discovered that his intentions were not honorable, and says he has repeatedly insulted her, for which she determined on vengeance. On Wednesday forenoon, as Martin was passing the hotel, Mary beckoned him from the chamber window to come up, and he, thinking she had relented, went in, and Mary came to him, laid her arm upon his shoulder, and, taking hold of his cravat, asked him why he wore his handkerchief about his neck so close in warm weather. 'It's not too close,' said James. 'It is,' said Mary, and loosened it. 'Now,' says Mary, 'what did you give me to coax me?' 'Nothing,' says James. 'Take that!' says Mary, and at the same time drew a razor across the throat of Mr. Martin. James tore himself away from the affectionate Mary, and went to Dr. Ellsworth's to get his wound dressed. Mary was arrested in the afternoon. She admitted giving him the wound, and says she meant to 'nick him a bit' by way of reparation of her wrongs. The cut was between three and four inches long, and upon the right side of Mr. Martin's throat. It was almost deep enough to cause death, from which his escape was very narrow.

DOUGLAS JERROLD'S WIT AND HUMOR.

With women as with warriors, there's no robbery—all's conquest.

Treason is like diamonds; there's nothing to be made of it by the small trader.

In all the wedding cake, hope is the sweetest of the plums.

The character that needs law to mend it is hardly with the tinkering.

Second Marriage.—I've heard say wedlock's like wine—not to be properly judged of till the second glass.

Damp Sheets.—To think that two or three yards of damp flax should so knock down the majesty of man!

A Very Rogue.—Had he to cut his neighbor's throat, he'd first sharpen his knife on the church marble.

Jewels!—It's my belief that when woman was made, jewels were invented only to make her the more mischievous.

A Wedding Gown.—After all, there is something about a wedding gown prettier than any other gown in the world.

Woman's Love of Dress.—Ask a woman to a tea party in the Garden of Eden, and she'd be sure to draw up her eye lids and scream, 'I can't go without a new gown.'

TO KEEP HAMS IN SUMMER.—One good way is to put a layer of coarse salt in the bottom of a barrel, then lay a ham in and cover it with salt, and then another, and so on till the barrel is filled. Of course this salt should be dry, and the barrel should be kept in a dry place.

Another and better way is to sew up each ham in a coarse cloth bag, then give the whole a coating of whitewash, and hang up the bag in a smokehouse, or any dark, cold place.

A sure way of keeping hams fresh, but not a neat way, is to bag them as before mentioned, bury the bag in the ash-hole, taking it out as wanted.

We have known them to keep very well by simply wrapping in several thicknesses of newspaper and hanging in an open garret. A correspondent says they also 'keep perfectly, as he has proved, by packing in sweet, dry hay, run through a hay-cutter. Then wrap them with a single thickness of newspaper, and surround each ham with a portion of the hay; tie the whole in large cotton bags, and hang in a dry place.'

American Agriculturist.

☞ Printing in glass has been successfully accomplished by a gentleman in New York city. By a new process he is enabled to print letters and figures of various designs on glass in multicolors, with a facility almost equal to ordinary printing on common paper. Labels can be printed by this process directly on bottles of any size or form. These have the appearance of having been placed there by the hand, and are indelible. Lettering on glass by the new process can be done at less than one-third the present cost. The inventor is about to apply for a patent for his novel, and useful improvement.

A WISE ANSWER.

'You must not play with that little girl, my dear,' said an injudicious parent.

'But, ma, I like her, she's a good little girl, and I'm sure she dresses as prettily as ever I do; and she has lots of toys.'

'I cannot help that, my dear,' responded the foolish aristocrat, 'her father is a shoemaker."

'But I don't play with her father, I play with her; she ain't a shoemaker.'

HYSTERICAL.—To see a wasp-waisted young lady in ringlets, and an abundance of flounces, gracefully sail to the head of the table, and with a voice as angelic as a tenor flute, call the waiter for a plate of cold pork and beans, it is the most trying thing romance can encounter.

'Six feet in his boots?' exclaimed old Mrs Beeswax. What will the impertinence of this world come to, I wonder? Why they might just as reasonably tell me that a man had six heads in his hat.

'The late scarcity of money,' said a loving husband to his wife, 'was owing to—' You are right, my dear, it was because there was so much owing to, and so little paying to.'

A conscientious person affirms that he once in his life beheld people 'minding their own business.' This remarkable occurrence happened at sea, the passengers being 'too sick' to attend to each others' concerns.

GIRLS, BE CAUTIOUS.—The following paragraph, like many others equally as good, we find floating around without credit. It matters but little though, who the author may be, for it contains some very excellent advice which we commend to all our young lady readers—especially those who contemplate matrimony. This, doubtless, includes all, for we have yet to find the young lady (there are no old ones unmarried) who has resolutely determined never to unite her fortunes with some member of the rougher sex, should a favorable offer present itself. But to the extract, which is as follows:

'Girls, beware of transient young men—never suffer the address of strangers; recollect one good, steady farmers' boy or industrious mechanic is worth more than all the floating trash in the world. The allurement's of a dandy-jack, with a gold chain about his neck, a walking stick in his paw, some honest tailors coat on his back, and a brainless though fancy scull, can never make up the loss of a kind father's home, a good mother's counsel, and the society of brothers and sisters; their affection lasts, while that of such a man is lost at the wane of the honey-moon. Girls, beware; take heed lest ye should fall into the 'snare of the fowler,' too many have already been taken from a kind father's home and a good mother's counsel, and made the victim of poverty and crime, brought to shame and disgrace and then thrown upon their own resources, to live their few remaining days in grief and sorrow, while the brainless skull is making its circuit around the world, bringing to his ignoble will all that may be allured by his deceitful snares, making the home of many a fair one the shame of his artful villiany.'

EXTRAORDINARY BIRTHS.—It is stated by Burdock that the wife of a countryman in the Moscow district had given birth to 69 children at 27 confinements—four times four at one birth, seven times three, and sixteen times twins. In the year 1809, the Vienna newspapers contained the following announcement:—Maria Anna Helen, the wife of a poor linen weaver in Neuelerchenfield, 20 years married, bore at seven confinements, 32 children—28 living and 4 dead; 26 were males and 6 females; all were begotten by one man, and nursed by herself. She had at her last confinement three children, one living and two dead. Her husband was a twin, she herself one of four. Her mother had produced 38 children, and died during a confinement with twins. The greatest number of children ever produced at one birth appears to have been six, all of whom were boys, and all dead. The woman who gave birth to them had been twice married, and already given birth to 44 children; during her first marriage, which lasted 22 years, she bore 27 boys and 5 girls; in her second marriage, which lasted but three years, she bore 14 children—three at the first, five at the second, and six the third confinement.

AMALGAMATION MARRIAGES IN BOSTON.—The Boston matrimonial register shows that during the year there were 60 amalgamation marriages; and singular to say, they were of white women with black or colored men; in no instance has a white man been registered as having taken to wife a colored woman. The white ladies of Boston and thereabouts have singular tastes; certainly they seem to relish black kisses, from all accounts, with peculiar gusto, and, black or colored husbands are becoming a highly popular institution among them. Can anything prove more conclusively the growing degeneracy in point of morality and decency, of pious, proper New England, as this horrible fanaticism, which strikes at the root of every thing like purity and tends to undermine the divine laws of nature! When woman, the safeguard of virtue and purity, stoops thus to degrade herself, perverting the womanhood within her, the degradation of man, as a necessary consequence, must follow.—N. Y. Dispatch.

GIVING HIM SCISSORS.—A notorious ex-policeman and bully, sinning under the soubriquet of Billy Meehan, was arrested in New York, on Thursday, on the charge of brutally assaulting two ladies in Broome street, last evening. He had insisted upon conveying them home, and on their refusal, knocked them both down, and kicked them while prostrated upon the sidewalk. One of them, however, on regaining her feet, struck him in the face with a pair of scissors, inflicting a gash which will be likely to mark the vagabond for life.

PHONOGRAPHIC.—A love scene, overheard and phonographically reported by Phredered Phine: 'phairest of the phair,' sighed the lover, 'phancy my pheelings when I phorsee the phearful consequences of your phleeing phrom your phather's phamily. Phew phellows could have phaced the music with so much phortitude as I have and as phickle phortune phails to smile upon our love, I phind I phorgo the pleasure oph becoming your husband, Phair Phrances, pharewell phorever!'

'Hold, Phranklin, hold!' screamed Phrances. 'I will phollow you phorever.' But Phranklin phled, and Phrances phainted.

A dry crust of a fellow who was unhappy with his preacher because the dry vine, as Carlyle would call him, could not penetrate the thick ligament that covered the crusty man's soul, signified to the minister his desire to have a pew nearer the pulpit.

"Can't you hear?" asked the good man.

'Yes,' was the reply.

'Can't you see?'

'Yes.'

'Then why do you change?'

'Because,' said the obdurate one, 'I am so far off that when your words get to me they are as flat as dishwater.'

THE UNIVERSAL BEVERAGE.

BY M. B.

I've drained the sparkling wine-cup, I've quaff'd the flowing bowl,
I've drank of every vintage, from Sobiran to the pole;
From Schloss Johannesberger; the glory of the Rhine,
To prime imperial Tokay, that fam'd Hungarian wine;
With the sherry sack of Shakespeare, from Xere's vine-clad land,
And the rosy grape, that blushes on sweet Madeira's strand.

Yes, I've bath'd my lips in each ecstatic wine
That gushes from the golded grape, or the Tyrian purple vine,
That flashes from the sunbeams, with hues of crimson bright,
Or sparkles in my glass, with rays of dazaling light;
But the sparkling di'mond water that gushes from the spring,
Is a beverage more befitting the peasant or the king:
It never raises fever, the pulse beats free and calm,
And the aching temples it can sooth like Gilead's blessed balm;
It comes pouring on the throbbing, the feverish, burning brain,
And like the precious dew of Hermon quick relieves us of our pain.
Take away the poison'd cup, bring me the chalic pure,
Fresh from the crystal fountain, for every ill a cure.

A DEFINITION IN POLITICAL ECONOMY.—'Will you never learn, my dear, the difference between real and exchangeable value?' The question had been put to a husband who had been lucky enough to be tied to a political economist in petticoats.—'Oh, yes, my dear, I think I begin to see it.' 'Indeed,' responded the lady. 'Yes,' responded the husband, 'for instance, I know your deep learning, and all your other virtues. That's your real value. But I know, also, that none of my married friends would swop wives with me. That's your exchangeable value.'

ADVICE TO SINGLE MEN.—If you don't wish to fall in love, keep away from calico. You can no more play with girls without losing your heart, than you can play at Faro without losing your money. As Dobbs very justly observes, the heart-strings of a woman, like the tendrils of a vine, are always reaching out after more to cling to. The consequence is you are gone, like a one-legged stove at a street auction.

A correspondent in the Crescent City writes as follows:—'Here is something I saw myself. A few days since a verdant youth with his blushing bride arrived at one of the principal hotels in this city.—The head of the family immediately registered his name as S. B. Jones and lady, Alabama, on a bridle tower.' Is not this a new way to inform the public you are in the hymenial halter?'

DEATH—STEEL HOOPS.—The Bridgeport Farmer gives the following interesting particulars respecting the death of Miss Godfrey, at Reading, Conn., on the 11th inst. Miss Nancy Godfrey was sitting in her chamber, by an open window, reading. It is supposed that the fluid was attracted by the metal about her person. Her artificial teeth were found at some distance from her, and the hoops in her dress were partly melted.

Curran was a rare wit, but even he sometimes met with his match. He was once examining a cross-grained, ugly-faced witness from whom he in vain sought to obtain a direct answer. At length he exclaimed—

'It is no use trying to get the truth out of you, for I see the villain in your face.'

'Do you, sir?' retorted the man, with a grin, 'why then it must be so—faith, I never knew my face was a looking-glass before!'

A poet asked a gentleman what he thought of his last production, 'An Ode to Sleep.' The latter replied: 'You have done so much justice to the subject that it is impossible to read it without feeling its whole weight.'

When Lady Holland wanted to get rid of a fop, she used to say, 'I beg your pardon, but I wish you would sit a little further off; there is something in your handkerchief which I do not like.'

One of the finest writers says that 'the nightly dews come down upon us like blessings.' How very differently the daily dues come down upon us in these hard times.

Why are railway companies like laundresses? Because they have ironed all the continent of America, and sometimes do a little mangling.

A citizen of Hallowell has taken a fancy to the head of a dog that howls in his vicinity, and offers a reward of five dollars for a sight of the head, minus the body.

How pleasant it is for a father to sit by his child's board. It is like the aged man reclining under the shadow of an oak which he has planted.

Pat Doolan, and Irishman, bowed his head to a cannon-ball which whizzed past six inches above his bearskin. 'Faith,' says Pat, 'one never loses anything by politeness.'

POLITE.—There is a gentleman in this city so polite that he begs his own pardon every time he tumbles down; being good-natured, he always grants it.

THERE is not greater difference between the living and the dead, than between a wise man and a blockhead.

ELIZABETH CITY:

TUESDAY MORNING, AUGUST 17, 1858.

☞ The Editor is absent—"flying around" at Nag's Head, and enjoying the sea-breeze and Boothe's good fare. By-the-bye, some of these days will find us there, too, and we wish the gentleman who took brother GOELET, of the Cresset, in tow, to see that "we" are well provided for during our short stay, assuring him that, knowing nothing of the Terpsichorean art, we shall say nothing about the dancing at the hotel. The Colonel is a judge, and it was to be expected that he would give his opinion on matters and things generally at Nag's Head Hotel. We shan't, though.

THE RESULT.

From the returns received, says the Raleigh Standard, from more than two-thirds of the State, we think Judge Ellis's majority will reach 17,000—probably more. In the Legislature we shall have a majority of from fifty to fifty-five on joint ballot. Where is "Distribution?" Where is the Register's candidate?—a candidate forced so far as the Register could force him, up on the opposition. What does the Register think of "Independent" gubernatorial candidates in general, and of Mr. McRae in particular? And, especially, what does it think of "Independent Distribution" candidates? Where is Venable?—the man that was to pull off his coat and roll up his sleeves for McRae. Where is Linn B., the special protege of the Register and the man that swore Johnston must elect him?

"Like the baseless fabric of a dream,'

the fabrications of the Register and the hopes of disorganizers, distributionists and Know-Nothing Whig-American-Republican-Samites, have gone

"Glimmering through the vale of things that were,"—

A political tail, without body or head.

What are the cogitations of the Elizabeth City Sentinel, the Greensboro' Patriot, the Asheville Spectator, &c? Will not their pale ghosts hover around the Register office, pointing their skinny fingers at Mr. Syme, and utter in sepulchral tones the startling words, "WE TOLD YOU SO?"

"THE LONDON COTTON PLANT."

We are gratified to learn that thss journal is now permanently established. We have received four numbers of it. It is devoted, as its name very significantly indicates, to the advocacy of Southern principles in England; and most ably are they discussed in its columns. The Editor takes the only true position in his discussions of Slavery—viz: that the negro is not a white man, but a negro, and that as such he is not fit for the same sort of government as the white man—never has been, and his history furnishes no ground to believe that he ever will be. All the furious zeal of Yankee abolitionists or Exeter Hall free-negroists will never alter the simple truth that the negro is a negro and not a white man, and can never be made one.

We hail the establishment of a pro-slavery journal in Europe with a great deal of pleasure. The South has long felt the need of such an exponent of its peculiar views. She is not, and cannot be longer content, to stand on the defensive in regard to slavery. We believe our philosophy sound, and our practice right, and are willing that they should be subjected, anywhere and everywhere, to the severest tests of criticism and discussion.

We most cordially recommend this paper to our readers. It can be obtained by remitting $10 to Mr. C. Mitchell, publisher, London.

APPOINTMENT OF JUDGES.

The Governor and Council met in Raleigh on Wednesday last, for the purpose of filling the vacancies on the Superior Court Bench occasioned by the resignation of Judges Ellis and Person—the former of whom has just been elected Governor, and the latter we learn intends resuming his practice at the bar.

Jesse G. Shepherd, Esq., of Fayetteville, received the appointment of Judge in place of Judge Person, and R. R. Heath, Esq., of Edenton, received the appointment for this District. These are excellent appointments, and will doubtless give general satisfaction throughout the State. Mr. Heath is generally regarded as the father of the Bar in the circuit of his extensive practice; and from his long and successful experience, his vast legal learning, his patience and suavity of manner, superadded to a bearing dignified, just and manly, we anticipate for him a judicial career that will reflect credit upon himself and honor upon the Bench.

THIS DISTRICT.

We have not been able to learn the vote for Ellis and McRae in this District, and consequently do not know the majority for the Judge, though there is no doubt of his having carried the District by a handsome majority. In the Legislature, however, we have slightly 'got' the Know Nothings—the Democrats having elected six Senators out of the nine Senatorial Districts; and in the House of Commons, we will have nine members and the Opposition seven. Well done, gallant first!

EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

NAG'S HEAD, August 13, 1858.

I have at last found time sufficient to attempt the writing a short epistle for the "Pioneer," and to give an inkling of what is transpiring in this little community of ours—a community of whole-souled, generous, and sociable North Carolinians. We have none others but residents of the State here at this time: The Hotel is not crowded, neither have we so large a number of visitors as are usually found here at this season. This is owing to the pressure of the times, and the general scarcity of money. Yet there is not much cause for complaint. If not so large as usual, the company here assembled will compare with any ever before seeking health or pleasure at this, or any other, watering place.—North Carolina need not fear to base her claim to superiority, or to say the least, equality, in the beauty, intelligence, and amiability of her daughters, and to select as her representatives many of those now sojourning upon this strip of terra firma. In proof of this assertion, we might mention names, and feel assured of a general acquiescence in the remark. This, however, we are not allowed to do, for the unaffected modesty of the fair ones of our good old State instinctively shrink from public notice, and prefer that their virtues shall be appreciated by the silent, but not less forcible, tribute which a correct and refined taste is daily paying them, to the gaze which a newspaper article would draw upon them. Without infringing their right to have their names withheld from the public view, or asserting our privilege to individualize, we may be permitted to say, that Martin county has contributed largely to swell the display of beauty and elegance, and that our own little city has here a representation to be proud of. It is not our intention to detract from other places, or to draw invidious distinctions; we simply mention these because of the larger delegations which they have sent.

This is the first season at Nag's Head under the direction of its present proprietor, Mr. John Boothe. May it not be the last. He has shown himself to be well qualified for the task he has undertaken. Though laboring under many disadvantages from the limited time between taking the Hotel and the opening of the season, he has yet managed to give general satisfaction, and by his gentlemanly bearing, kind and obliging disposition, and unceasing attention to the wants of his guests, he has won the commendations of all who have patronized his house. The table has never been better kept; all that the market would afford has been lavished upon it, and the epicure, though disposed to fault finding, would find himself puzzled to lodge a complaint.

Our old friend, W. A. Harney, Clerk of the establishment, has not been behind Mr. Boothe in his exertions to minister to the comfort and pleasure of the visitors.—So successful has he been in this, that he is almost considered an indispensable appendage to Nag's Head.

For the last week we have been visited with copious showers, which we would willingly have dispensed with, could they have been poured out upon the parched and suffering crops in other localities, rather than wasted upon the barren sand hills here. On last Tuesday I had the pleasure of beholding, for the first time in my life, one of those phenomena so much dreaded by the mariner, the water spout. There were two of them; they appeared about 11 o'clock, and hung like two immense columns suspended over the ocean from a black and threatening cloud that arose in the East. For two hours they were to be seen, changing in size and form, and gradually approaching the ocean, until at last their contents were discharged and the water beneath seemed like a vast boiling cauldron, as it received the deluge that came from above.

On Sabbath last there was preaching in the Episcopal Chapel, the Rev. E. M. Forbes officiating, and the Rev. Mr. Berry, of the Methodist Church, delivered an eloquent discourse to an attentive congregation at the Hotel.

The amusements of Nag's Head are too well known to be named. Whilst the ball room attracts many, and many there are who spend the evenings in "tripping it upon the light fantastic toe," more than one may be found lingering upon the sandy shore where old ocean continues to heave its everlasting billows and send up its eternal and unchanging roar. Vows of love and constancy may be there exchanged, for aught we know, and the breezes which come so fresh and gentle from the slumbering waters, may bear away pledges of mutual affection as sacred and holy as the soft air with which they mingle is pure and incorrupted.

Our time has been spent principally in piscatorial sport, for which we have a passionate fondness. On Thursday we made an excursion to the Narrows, a little strait connecting the waters of the Albemarle and Pamlico Sounds, and in about one hour and a half we had boated about two hundred fine large trout. This was sport indeed, and it is our intention to repeat.

On Thursday, the 27th of this month, the Curlew will make an excursion from this place up North River to the Chesapeake and Albemarle Canal, leaving Nag's Head at 6 o'clock, A. M., and return the same evening. The fare will be from Elizabeth City for the round trip, $3; from Nag's Head, $2. Passengers from E. City intending to come by Thursday's boat, will therefore be taken to Nag's Head on Wednesday evening, as the steamer will leave Elizabeth City at 5 o'clock, P. M., on that day.

THE MOUNTAIN DISTRICT.

Z. B. Vance, Esq., Know-Nothing, has been elected to Congress from the eighth district of North Carolina, over W. W. Avery, Democrat, by a majority of at least 2500 votes. It will be recollected that this is the District represented by Hon. T. L. Clingman, until that gentleman was appointed U. S. Senator in place of Hon. Asa Biggs, resigned, when it became necessary to hold a special election, which took place on the 5th inst.

We must confess that we are both surprised and mortified at this result, and we are at a loss to account for the defeat of our principles in a District which we had believed to be the Gibraltar of Democracy, unless it is attributable to the fact that the party had no regularly nominated candidate. But we will not repine; let our friends there prepare for the battle to be fought in 1859—let the party go into convention, and send out a candidate endorsed by the friends of a Constitutional Union—and whether Paul, or Apollas, or Cephas, whether Coleman, Mills, or Avery leads, let him come off more than conqueror!

GOOD ADVICE DISREGARDED.—The following extract, italic and all are taken from a letter written at the National Observatory, Washington, on the 28th March, 1857, to the Atlantic Telegraph Company, upon the best time for laying the cable, and which has happily proved to be the very best:

"Nevertheless, the enterprise upon which you are engaged is an important one. Good weather for it is very desirable, nay, almost indispensable; and these barometic anomalies are suggestive. Perhaps it would be wise for the steamers not to join cables until after the 20th of July. I think between that time and the 10th of August the state of both sea and air is usually in the most favorable condition possible; and that is the time which my investigations indicate as the most favorable for laying down the wire. I recommend it, and wish you good luck.

Yours,
N. F. MAURY."

PASSING AWAY.

Littleton Waller Tazwell, of Norfolk, is believed to be the only surviving member of the memorable Virginia Legislature of 1798-'99 and 1799-1800. Major Yancey, of Buckingham, died last year, and Major Noland, of Loudoun, a year or two previous.

Of the 48 Senators who took their seats in the eighteenth Congress in 1823, but two survive, namely:—Martin Van Buren of New York, and John Branch of North Carolina.—Both of these gentlemen, it will be reccollected, were members of General Jackson's first Cabinet.—Richmond Examiner.

ARIZONA continues much disturbed by Indian depredations, murders and robberies, and there being no courts of law, the violence remains unchecked. The intelligence from the silver mines is highly encouraging, fresh discoveries having been made. Tueson was nearly deserted by the people going to the new placer gold diggings at Canada del Ora, 40 miles distant. Immigration from California was on the increase, and a press was about to be brought from San Francisco for the establishment of a newspaper at Tucson. The people were anxiously awaiting and expecting a Territorial Government.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—A gentleman at Bangle Gold Mine, near Concord, sends us the particulars of a fatal accident which occurred on the 3d inst. On that day a party was out hunting for two runaway negroes, when a young man by the name of R. Lightaker fell down, striking the hammer of his gun against a rock, causing it to discharge, and lodging the whole charge of heavy shot in the abdomen and groin of a young man by the name of Faggart, causing death in 35 minutes.—John F. Faggart narrowly escaped the contents of the gun.—Western Democrat

IN BED WITH A RATTLESNAKE.—We have frequently heard of snakes visiting houses, and of their sometimes having been found in and under beds, but we do not recollect ever of having heard of as remarkable an escape from an awful death from a snake as the following, related to us by Mr. T. W. Bliss, who was present when it occurred. About five weeks ago, two children of Mr. Jacob Schell, living about three and a half miles west of Washington—the one aged nine and other four years—becoming weary from the excessive heat, lay down on the bed shortly after dinner and were soon fast asleep.—Sometime during the afternoon, Mr. Schell and our informant, who had been at work in the field, were compelled to seek the house for shelter from a heavy shower.—They had scarcely entered when Mrs. Schell went to the bed to replace some of the covering which had become displaced, when the horrible sight met their eyes, the head of a huge rattlesnake projecting from between the children, and its body in close proximity to theirs. Mrs. S. was of course much frightened, and there is not much doubt but that it would have terminated fatally to at least one of the children, had it not been for the providential arrival of the two men, who, with more presence of mind, quietly removed them from either side of the bed at the same time, without alarming the snake, thus undoubtedly saving their lives. His 'snakeship' was then unceremoniously despatched. It proved to be a very large one, with six rattles in its tail. How it got there is a mystery.—Peoria Union, 15th.

☞ We publish as a great curiosity the following characteristic letter, received by our friend Dr. J. C. AYER, of Lowell, Mass., from the "Rebel Chief," or usurping Emperor of China, in acknowledgment for quantities of his CHERRY PECTORAL and CATHARTIC PILLS, the Doctor sent him as a present.

To DR. AYER in America—

The great curing Barbarian of the outside country.

Your present of sweet curing seeds (Pills) and fragrant curing drops, (Pectoral) of the Cherry smell, has been brought to Hugseu-Tseng—the mighty Emperor (Kwangto) of the terrible stout Ming dynasty, by the grace of heaven revived after an interral of ages—Prince of peace (Taping-waig) of China, the central flowery land. He directed his powerful Mandarines to give them to the sick according to what the Interpreters read from your printed papers (directions.) Be profoundly happy, O wise Barbarian! for I, Yang-seu-Tsing, say it. Your curing seeds and sweet curing drops were given to the sick in his Army of the Winged-Sword, and have made them well. Be profoundly happy while you live for this is known to the Mighty Emperor of China, who approves your skill, and permits you to send more of your curing medicines for his fierce armies of myriads of men.

They may be given to Chiang Lin, Chief Mandarin of the Red Button at Shanghai, who will repay you with Tea or Silk or Gold.

The high Mandarins of China, have heard of your great knowledge, surpassing all other Foreigners, even aspiring to equal the keen wisdom of our own healing teachers, who make remedies that cure instantly. We are glad to know that you bow in trembling terror before our Mighty Emperor.

Written by YANG-SEU-TSING,
Minister-in-chief of the restored Imperial Ming Dynasty, destined by the heavenly wisdom to rule in China.

SCENE ON A DUELLING GROUND.—A hostile meeting took place yesterday evening, about 6 o'clock, near the Halfway-House, between Mr. Joseph T. Howell, of this city, and Col. Henry, formerly of the U. S. Army, but more recently of the Nicaraguan Army. The weapons used were Colt's pistols, navy size—distance ten paces. Col. Henry was wounded in the left arm, and in the upper part of the abdomen.—The latter wound was for a time considered mortal, but we learn that strong hopes are entertained as to his recovery.

The agreement was that both should fire after the word "fire," and to continue firing at will until stopped by the seconds. We learn that two shots were fired when the second of Col. Henry cried "Stop." Col. Henry, however, fired his third shot, which was returned by Mr. Howell, when the second of Mr. Howell also cried "Stop," but Mr. Howell again raised his pistol, and fired the fourth time. There was considerable excitement among the by-standers, there being about one hundred and fifty persons present, and a cry of "foul play" was raised. Mr. Howel stated that he did not hear the command to stop, and was willing to fight any one else on the ground. Some one made a motion to accept his challenge, but was prevented. We learn that the principals shook hands before taking their places.—N. O. Delta, 5th inst.

MEXICO.

The New Orleans Picayune professes to have advices from Mexico via Brownsville confirming the flight of Zuloaga from the capital, after which it is stated, he declared in favor of the Constitution of 1834, whereupon Parodi abandoned him. All this may be so, but before giving it implicit credence we shall await its confirmation from Vera Cruz or Tampico.—N. Y. Tribune.

THE ATLANTIC CABLE LAID!

All hail to Anglo-Saxon genius! and two nations' heartfelt thanks to the noble, aye, and mighty, men of science, capital, and energy, whose untiring zeal and indomitable perseverance have linked the hemispheres with the electric cord! The cable, that has been the subject of so many hopes and fears, the enteprise that has received so much commendation and discouragement, now ceases to agitate with differing storms the public mind; and all, with one accord, and with harmonious voice, in joy and gratitude, feel glad that, reposing on old Ocean's bed, it has become a bond of peace between the nations, and that success has at last crowned the united efforts of America and England to bring about a triumph of science unequaled in the history of the age. On the afternoon of the 5th our land was electrified with the glorious intelligence; and smiles, congratulations, and warm expressions of good will, were heard and seen on every side. At Andover Theological College about one thousand persons were partaking of the Alumni's semi-centennial dinner, when the news was announced; then followed enthusiastic applause, and from that crowd of men of genius, learning and position, there burst forth, to the solemn tones of the 'Old Hundred,'

"Praise God, from whom all blessings flow."

The right reception for such glorious news! Hearts were too full to speak, and many a silent sigh of thankfulness ascended to Him who had given the genius, and sustained by daily help, the men whose toil and energy have secured this grand result.

Originated at a time when all seemed prosperous and fair, then carried on through a season of such commercial depression as, we are thankful to say, is seldom seen; when cavillers and objectors on every hand—from the press and forum—all alike spoke discouragingly of the enterprise; yet after three failures, through all these difficulties, these noble men have toiled and thought, devised and carried out, and at last, when least expected, their perseverance is rewarded, and the world agreeably disappointed, by success! Only three weeks ago we announced the failure number three, but we did not groan and lament; we knew that the credit of men of science was at stake, the reputation of two navies was concerned; they had to effect a victory greater than ever was obtained in any battle, and our motto was in Geralds Masseys' simple words—

"Hope on, hope ever."

Words almost loose their power, and fancy becomes weak, when we imagine the great results that will follow in the wake of the great event—Christianity and liberty both made more secure, new avenues of commerce opened, and no time giving for rankling feelings to posses the minds of either people towards each other, for difficulties will be explained in a few hours; and in this regard, Cyrus W. Field, Professor Morse, and all connected with the enterprise, are great pacificators, great civilizers, and ever after shall be enrolled among the world's great men. We have not the inclination now to expatiate on the triumphs of science over natural difficulties, but we cannot help confessing that we are struck with wonder and an honest pride, when we reflect that British and American science, skill, and application have made three thousand miles of no importance, and have conquered Space and mastered Time.—Scientific American.

ARE THE MEN OF THE SOUTH DEGENERATING PHYSICALLY? is a question which is being determined by research, the inquisition having been commenced last fall.—The question was raised by the promulgation of a Northern theory, that the influences of life in the South had induced a special degeneracy in the physical conformation of our men. The system adopted has been to take the average weight and stature at various military academies and medical colleges, and the result is an entire refutation of the theory, and would be even more decidedly so had any plan been devised and acted upon for arriving at the average of the general population, for students as a class, necessarily lack, from the manner of their lives, the weight and development which follows from active pursuit of the mechanic arts, agricultural occupations, &c. The average height of forty two students of the University of Louisiana, as furnished by Dr. Nott, was 5 feet 10 1-2 inches, and their average weight 145 1-4 pounds. Of 108 students of the Tennessee University, 5 ft. 10 inches, weight 150 pounds. Of 75 students of the Jefferson Medical College, 5 ft. 9 inches, weight 145 pounds. Of 150 students of Virginia Military Institute, 5 ft. 9 inches, weight 141 1-4 pounds. From the above it will be observed that the men of the Louisiana College were the tallest, those of Tennessee University the heaviest, and those of the Virginia University the lightest. We have no statistics of Northern men to compare with these, but we doubt if an exhibit from those regions would bear any favorable comparison with the foregoing.—Mobile Register.

☞ In a down east town (as everywhere else) a flaming placard was stuck about the streets, bearing in bright vermillion characters this device—

Have you read Cobb's new story?

One of the "lads" of the village paused beneath the poster, and scrawled beneath it with red chalk—

"NARY RED!"

From the Petersburg Express.

DESPERATE ATTEMPT TO MURDER A HIGHLY RESPECTABLE CITIZEN.

PLEASANT HILL, N. C., Aug. 8.

DEAR EXPRESS: I have to announce another sad occurrence, which happened at Pleasant Grove, in this county, on yesterday, the 2nd inst. Littlebury P. Parker went to the store of Wm. M. Crocker, Esq., a respectable merchant in this county, and endeavored to murder him without any provocation, and in cold blood. As Parker approached the store, Mr. Crocker, in his usual manner, went out to meet him, when Parker fired the contents of a horseman's pistol at him, which fortunately did not take effect. Parker instantly drew another pistol, and fired again, which shot took effect, seriously wounding Mr. Crocker. After Mr. Crocker had fallen, Parker approached near him for the purpose of shooting him a third time, and thus perfect his diabolical design in murdering his best friend; but as he came near over him, Mr. Crocker seized his hand and pulled him down, and thus saved himself from instantly being murdered.

I have not learned the full extent of Mr. Crocker's injuries, as medical aid had not arrived when my informant left the scene of action. As soon as I get further information I will write you again.

There is no cause assigned for this rash act. Mr. Crocker has been a firm and constant friend of Parker's for a long series of years, aiding him when others would not. Mr. Crocker is a man of wealth, accumulated by his own exertions, of urbane and sociable bearing, kind to the poor, and universally respected in his county. He has acted for a good number of years as magistrate in this county, and has frequently been elected a member of the Special Court of Northampton county. His death would be a great loss to this community. Yours,

BONHOMMIE.

A CAMPAIGN AGAINST CRINOLINE.—It is said, with what truth we are not advised, that the "three thousand clergymen" who figured so prominently on the occasion of the repeal of the Missouri Compromise are about reorganizing to open a fierful campaign against hoops and other artificial enlargements. We regarded the "white cravats" in the matter of the Missouri restriction as enacting a most objectionable and ridiculous role, but we are not so clear about their present enterprise. Crinolines of themselves constitute a powerful defence, and we should say quite sufficient to resist the attacks of a mere peace party. But, then, again, ladies are well known to hold all clergymen in profound and sacred reverence, and to concede to them the right to decide what is good and what is evil even in matters appertaining to the toilette. On the other hand, the ladies, especially of large cities, are very much devoted to fashion; and fashion has not only sanctioned the crinoline, but has endowed it with an expansive power which no prudent man would be safe in assailing. These conditions, we infer, will lead to war direct between the Church and Fashion; and we shall not regret it. Nobody, as things are now, feels any certainty as to which is the superior—Fashion or the Church. Besides, a large class of people have had their suspicions that the two powers had come to a compromise, which is, doubtless, a slander. Let them now fight for ascendency. Two to one on Fashion!

GEN. WALKER'S SONORA EXPEDITION.

ST. LOUIS, August 10.—The Peace Commissioners passed through here on their way East, yesterday.

A gentleman from Aburqueque reports 275 men assembled at Pawnee Fork, Arkansas river, to assist Gen. Walker in Sonora. Walker is said to have passed through previously 800 mounted men armed with Minnie rifles, and eighteen cannon. Col. Titus is with Walker at El Paso.

☞ A young minister, in a highly elaborated sermon which he preached while supplying an absent minister's pulpit, said several times, when giving some new exposition on a passage—"The commentators do not agree with me here." Next morning, as he was running on with his performances, a poor woman came to see him with something in her apron. She said her husband heard his sermon, and thought it was a very good one as he said "the common taters did not agree with him here," he had sent some of the very best "Jersy blues."

☞ A correspondent of the Richmond (Va.) Dispatch, describing a visit to Salem, N. C., says:

'Salem Jeans is worn in some parts of Virginia. It should be the uniform of the students of the North Carolina University. Southern gentlemen should wear it in preference to flimsey northern fabrics.

A noted Academy for females is here, and those who were educated in it are said to be excellent mothers and sisters.'

And the editor of the Charlotte Democrat adds: "Wives too."

NICARAGUA AND THE UNITED STATES.—A correspondent of the New York Times, at Granada, writes that the rumor that the United States Government was about to blockade the ports of Nicaragua, had created quite a sensation there. Gen. Lamar, our minister, had a protracted interview on the 22d ult. with the Nicaraguan cabinet, and informed them that his Government was about to take decisive measures in the pending questions.

ATTACK ON A NEWSPAPER.—A gang of "plugs" made an attack on the Baltimore Daily Exchange office Thursday, injuring one of the desks, and smashing up the furniture in the room. The attack was caused by some remarks in that paper the day before about a policeman, who was a friend of the "plugs." Three or four of the parties were arrested and bound over to keep the peace.

THE BLOUNT DIFFICULTY.—According to the Savannah Georgian the terms of the settlement between Col. Blount and 'Count' Reviere are to the effect that Miss Blount is to remain with her parents until the Count succeeds in removing certain disabilities under which he now labors, after which he is to become the lawful partner of her joys and sorrows.

☞ We are pleased to see that our young townsman, Mr. James N. Vaughan, has been licensed to practice law in the County Courts of this State, by the Supreme Court at Morganton.

These secret and solitary practices are more fatal to their victims than the song of the Syrens to the mariners Ulysses, blighting their most brilliant hopes of anticipations, rendering marriage, &c., impossible.

YOUNG MEN

especially, who have become the victims of Solitary Vice, that dreadful and destructive habit, which annually sweeps to an untimely grave thousands of young men of the most exalted talents and brilliant intellects, who might otherwise have entranced listening Senates with the thunders of eloquence, or waked to ecstacy the living lyre, may call with all confidence.

Marriage.

Married persons, or Young Men contemplating marriage, being aware of physical weakness, organic debility, deformities, &c., should immediately consult Dr. Johnston, and be restored to perfect health.

He who places himself under the care of Dr. Johnston, may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and confidently rely upon his skill as a Physician.

Organic Weakness

immediately cured and full vigor restored.

This disease is the penalty most frequently paid by those who have become the victims of improper indulgencies. Young persons are too apt to commit excesses from not being aware of the dreadful consequences that may ensue.—Now, who that understands the subject will pretend to deny that the power of Procreation is lost sooner by those falling into improper habits than by the prudent? Besides being deprived of the pleasure of healthy offspring, the most serious and destructive symptoms to both body and mind arise. The system becomes deranged; the physical and mental powers weakened, nervous debility, dyspepsia, palpitation or the heart, indigestion, a wasting of the frame, cough, symptoms of consumption, &c.

OFFICE—No. 7, South Frederick Street, Seven Doors from Baltimore St., East side, up the steps. ☞ Be particular in observing the name and number, or you will mistake the place.

A Cure Warranted, or no Charge Made, in from One to Two Days.

NO MERCURY OR NAUSEOUS DRUGS USED.

DR. JOHNSTON,

Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, London, Graduate from one of the most eminent Colleges of the United States, and the greater part of whose life has been spent in the Hospitals of London, Paris, Philadelphia, and elsewhere, has effected some of the most astonishing cures that were ever known. Many troubled with ringing in the ears and head when asleep, great nervousness, being alarmed at sudden sounds, and bashfulness, with frequent blushing, attended, sometimes, with derangement of mind, were cured immediately.

A Certain Disease.

When the misguided and imprudent votary of pleasure finds he has imbibed the seeds of this painful disease, it too often happens that an ill-timed sense of shame, or dread of discovery, deters him from applying to those who from education and respectability, can alone befriend him, delaying till the constitutional symptoms of this horrid disease make their appearance, such as ulcerated sore throat, diseased nose nocturnal pains in the head and limbs, dimness of sight, deafness, nodes on the shin bones and arms, blotches on the head, face and extremities, progressing with frightful rapidity, till at last the palate of the mouth or the bones of the nose fall in, and the victim of this awful disease becomes a horrid object of commiseration, till death puts a period to his dreadful sufferings, by sending him to 'that bourne from whence no traveler returns.' To such therefore Dr. Johnston pledges himself to preserve the most inviolable secrecy, and from his extensive practice in the first Hospitals of Europe and America, he can confidently recommend a safe and speedy cure to the unfortunate victim of this horrid disease.

It is a melancholy fact, that thousands fall victims to this dreadful disease, owing to the unskillfulness of ignorant pretenders, who, by the use of that dreadful poison, mercury, ruin the constitution, and either send the unfortunate sufferer to an untimely grave, or else make the residue of his life miserable.

Take Particular Notice!

Dr. J. addresses all those who have injured themselves by improper indulgencies and solitary habits which ruin both body and mind, unfitting them for either Business, Study, Society or Marriage.

These are some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits of youth, viz:—Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Pains in the Head, Dimness of Sight, Loss of Muscular Power, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Nervous Irritability, Derangement of the Digestive Functions, General Debility, Symptoms of Consumption, &c.

MENTALLY.—The fearful effects upon the mind are much to be dreaded; loss of memory, Confusion of ideas, Depression of Spirits, Forebodings of Evil, Aversion of Society, Self-Distrust, Love of Solitude, Timidity, etc., are some of the evils produced.

Thousands of persons of all ages can now judge what is the cause of their declining health. Losing their vigor, becoming weak, pale and emaciated, having a singular appearance about the eyes, cough and symptoms of consumption.

Dr. Johnston's Invigorating Remedy for Organic Weakness.

By this great and important remedy, weakness of the organs are speedily cured, and full vigor restored. Thousands of the most nervous and debilitated, who had lost all hope, have been immediately relieved. All Impediments to Marriage, Physical or Mental Disqualification, Nervous Irritability, Tremblings and Weakness, or exhaustion of the most fearful kind, speedily cured by Doctor Johnston.

Young Men,

Who have injured themselves by a Certain Practice, indulged in when alone—a habit frequently learned from evil companions, or at school—the effects of which are nightly felt, even when asleep, and if not cured renders marriage impossible, and destroys both mind and body, should apply immediately

What a pity that a young man, the hope of his country, and the darling of his parents, should be snatched from all prospects and enjoyments of life, by the consequences of deviating from the path of nature, and indulging in a certain secret habit. Such persons before contemplating should reflect that a sound mind and body are the most necessary requisites to promote connubial happiness. Indeed, without these, the journey through life becomes a weary pilgrimage, the prospects hourly darkens to the view; the mind becomes shadowed with despair and filled with the melancholy reflection that the happiness of another becomes blighted with our own.

OFFICE No. 7 SOUTH FREDERICK ST. Baltimore, Md.

ALL SURGICAL OPERATIONS PERFORMED.

To Strangers.

The many thousands cured at this institution within the last 10 years, and the numerous important Surgical operations performed by Dr. J. witnessed by the Reporters of the papers and many other persons, notices of which appeared again and again before the public, is a sufficient guarantee that the afflicted will find a skilful and honorable physician.

DR. JOHNSTON is the only regular Physician advertising to cure private complaints.—His remedies and treatment are entirely unknown to others. Prepared from a life spent in the great hospitals of Europe and the first in this country, viz: England, France, the Blockley of Philadelphia, &c., and a more extensive practice than any other Physician in the world. His many wonderful cures and most important Surgical operations are a sufficient guarantee to the afflicted. Those who wish to be speedily and effectually relieved, should shun the numerous trifling imposters, who only ruin their health, and apply to him.

Take Notice.

☞ There are so many ignorant and worthless Quacks advertising themselves as Physicians, ruining the health of the already afflicted, that Dr. Johnston deems it necessary to say, especially to those unacquainted with his reputation, that his credentials or diplomas always hang in his office.

☞ No letters received unless post-paid, and containing a stamp to use on the reply.

BY DR. J. T. BARCLAY, Late Missionary to Jerusalem. With a Steel Portrait of the Author by Sartain. Also Chromographic Illuminations in ten oil colors, Periscopic Panorama of the entire Circuit of the City and Environs, explanatory Maps, &c., by Rosenthal. Steel Engravings by Sartain, J C. Buttre, Dick and Earle. Finest Wood *E*ngravings by Louderback & Hoffman and J. H. Byram.

The Engravings will be executed in the highest style of art, from Photographs and original designs illustrating the various phases of the City.—

ANCIENT, MEDIEVAL, MODERN AND MILLENNIAL,

Also, Restoration of the Temple and City as invested by Titus.—Notices of its Jewish, Christian, and Heathen Antiquities—Its Present Political and Moral Condition—Future Prospects, &c.

This work is the result of investigations made during three and a half years' residence in the Holy City, with facilities for prosecuting researches never heretofore enjoyed. It was undertaken with special reference to the elucidation of the Holy Scriptures, the Talmud, the Works of Josephus, the Crusaders, and Pilgrim Chroniclers. The many valuable discoveries made in the Temple Enclosure, and other sacred localities, to which Dr. Barclay was admitted by special Firman, with permission to explore those hallowed spots, so jealously guarded for many centuries, and now for the first time presented to the Christian public, will introduce a new era in Sacred Topography.

'YOUNG AMERICA' CORN AND COB MILL,
MANUFACTURED BY
S. MARCH, Norfolk, Va.

THE above Mill, which so far surpassed all others last season, has been improved, and made stronger and better than ever, and is now in the field carrying everything before it. It is the mill for strength, durability and swiftness.

I annex a list of premiums it has received this season, over the 'Little Giant,' 'Magic Mill,' Star Mill, Maynard's Mill, and all others that have come into competition with it:

First premium at the N. York State Fair.
First premium at the Ohio State Fair.
First premium at the Michigan State Fair.
First premium at the N. Carolina State Fair.
First premium at the Nashville (Tenn.) Fair.
First premium at one County Fair in N. York.
First premium at ten County Fairs in Ohio.
Trial of corn and cob mills at the North Carolina State Fair, October 1856.

The following table will show the time occupied by each of the Mills on exhibition in grinding half bushel of corn and cobs:

Young America, 2 minutes and 40 seconds.
Little Giant, 4 " 55 "
Magic Mill, 6 "
Sinclair & Co's Mill, two trials, average time, 6 minutes and 58 seconds.

Advantages of the Young America or Excelsior Mill over all others: 1st, great strength and durability; 2d, simplicity, (having but one set screw to graduate the quality of grinding, which renders it so simple that it may be managed by any ordinary farm hand;) 3d, it will grind more corn, or corn and cob, in the same time, and of same quality, than any other mill in use of the same size; 4th, economy—that part of the mill which is most liable to wear, being separate from the main body of the machine, can be renewed when worn out, at the small cost of $3. Thus in the Young America or Excelsior mill, I present the best, cheapest and most durable mill ever offered to the Farmer. This mill is of large size and greater capacity than any other mill ever sold at the same price.

Price, including extra plates, $50.

I am also manufacturing Cart and Wagon Wheels, Farm Wagons, Carts, Trucks, Drays, Plows, Harrows, Cultivators, Corn Shellers, and Agricultural Implements generally, and am better prepared to furnish farmers and merchants than any other house in the city.

Call and examine my stock and be convinced that it is to your interest to patronize Southern enterprize. I am unwilling to believe that all the men in Virginia and North Carolina prefer to build up the North and impoverish the South.

I have also a Foundry connected with my factory, and solicit orders for Castings generally.
